fockey Machanan Acares Darnett & Herz Nyan, the Outlaw Promoter, Maya That He Will Stop Racing in Chicago Retert Waddell May Race Again,

There seems to be considerable seandal a voluntary attement to the stewards re-entling the institutions of his former em-ployers as to his fundling of their horses. Rolling Boer, The Lady and Potheen. Bu-chanan says that he followed instructions on The Lady and Potheen, but used his own judgment with Rolling. Boer because he considered his orders were not proper. The jockey also makes the statement that Here ad him to run away to California to avoid told him to run away to California to avoid answering embarrassing questions, but that he declined to go, as he had nothing to conceal. Having allowed Buchanan to go, Durnell & Herz are trying to induce Lucien Lyne to ride for them at New Orleans. They have offered Lyne's father $1,000 a month for his services and have also extended an invitation to the entire Lyne family to spend alleged wrongdoers without gloves, and they have had their hands full. It was only on Tuesday that the stewards suspended Jockey Hicks for a poor ride and took his badge away, and then followed it up with the suspension of the firm of Hatfield & Ownshy, the boy's employers. There has been much in-and-out running at New Or-leans, but most of it has been attributed outleans, but most of it has been attributed out-the poor condition of the track.

John J. Ryan, who intends to run an cur-law meeting at Newport, Ky, because of his troubles with the Western Jockey Club, threatens to carry the war into Chicago, where the Western Jockey Club enjoys its greatest power. Ryan declares that he will spend $25,000 to have the Illinois laws enforced, thereby stopping racing in the Windy City. This is the way Ryan is talking:

"It is one man against the Western Jockey Club, but I will show that one man can do a great many things when he has money behind him. I am after the Chicago tracks as a starter. I have been advised by a prominent attorney that he can close the tracks tighter than a drum on a strict interpretation of the law and I've engaged him to go shead that he had been advised by the tracks. with the job. Everybody knows that racing In Chicago is illegal and that is why I believe that I can deal the Western Jockey Club a New Orleans next year and one at St. Louis. The meeting at Newport will go ahead no matter what the Western Jockey Club does. Owners at New Orleans had to put up with lowed to shift their horses to Newport, while a number of jockeys were locked up in a room when they said they wanted to go North with me. But these tactics did not prevent me from making arrangements for plenty of material to begin the meeting." Col. Jack Chinn, who has been mentioned as starter at Newport, has not yet accepted the berth at Newport, has not yet accepted the berth and says he may not do so because of poor health.

Charlie Gray, the American jockey who returned here the other day after a successful campaign in Austria and Hungary, speaks in glowing terms of his experiences in those countries. "We all did well over there," said Gray, in talking with friends in Chicago, on Monday, where he had stopped off on his way to California, "and the racing flourished. A native Hungarian who rides with the short stirrup and rems led the jockeys of the season with ninety-nine victories to his credit. Fred Taral was second with sixty-eight. Russell, a California boy, was third with forty-four, and I ranked fourth with forty-three. Charley Van Dusen was right at my heels with thirty-nine and would probably have done much better had he not been set down for fouling. I rode for the stable of Herr von Egyedi, a rich Austrian, and have been engaged for next season at a salary of $5,000 for first call. Baron Springer will have second call on my services for $2,500. There are many really good horses in Austria and Hungary, the best of them being, I think, Liubar, who can pick up 140 or 150 pounds and carry his burden home ahead of any other horse in the country. They have some crack sprinters over there, too. Taral rode a big brown horse which he said was as great as Domino was in his palmy days. Another good one was Passe Partout, notthe loid jumper, but another horse with the same name. He could break hast and then run over his field. Jimmy Dyer, an American, was the best trainer in Austria.

Partout, not the old jumper, but another horse with the same name. He could break last and then run over his field. Jimmy Dyer, an American, was the best trainer in Auatria and Hungary. The foreigners marvelled at his success. Capt. Reimer, a retired cavalry officer, is the best starter over there, and I think he is as skilful as Dick Dwyer or Jake Holtman. They use the barriers just as in America. The stewards are very strict, but at the same time have always treated Americans with great fairness."

According to "Virginia" Bradley, Robert Waddell, who won the American Derby in 1901, may race again next season. The colt has been suffering for nearly a year from a broken shoulder bone, but that has mended perfectly and Bradley says that it will never hurt the colt's chances again. The only allment now is in the ligaments which have contracted, caused by the fact that the colt's leg has been useless so long. "You would never know Robert," says Bradley. "He is as fat as a hog and has grown so much in the past year that if he is able to train on I believe he will be the best five-vear-old in the country next season. He had no equal as a three-year-old and but for his hard luck he would have gone right on beating those stake horses every time he met them, no matter what weight he had up. That is where the handicappers always made a mistake with Robert. He was a little colt, but as powerful as an ox and could carry as much weight as Advance Guard, Pink Coat, Sidney Lucas or any of the older horses."

The Thompson brothers, who won the American Derby in 1900 with Sidney Lucas have decided to return to the turf and will race next year on the Western circuit. They still own Sidney Lucas, who is said to be as sound as a dollar. After they had won about 1900,000 on his races at Washington Park in 1900,000 a number of two-year-olds from Eastern owners.

Hernando, who ran well in long distance events a year ago this fall, but who was thrown out of training early last spring because he struck himself, has been pronounced well again and will be prepared in the spring for several of the big handicaps. It will be remembered that Hernando made things interesting here for such high-class performers as Gold Heels and Watercolor, both of whom have gone to the stud.

The yearling fillies and brood mares bred at the Childwick Stud, the property of Sir J. Blundell Maple, will be placed under the hammer at the American Horse Exchange to-night.

J. F. Carr, who has invented a new mechanical starting gate which has already been adopted at St. Louis, is at the Gilsey House. He has a model of the gate with him and says he will be glad to show it to any horseman who care to call. The new gate is made of steel and contains a series of stalls for the horses that may be sent to the post. Once a horse is driven into a stall it is impossible for him to get out. The machine is operated by electricity, and Mr. Carr says that he can send as many as flitten horses away with his gate in less than a minute after they have taken their positions.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. PARIS, Dec. 17. - The suit of Jockey Johnny Reiff against the newspaper La Vie au Grand Air for libel in publishing an article, with his portrait, which led to the withdrawal f his license, was called in court here to-day Caillault and other owners, for whom eiff rode, testified that they had no fault to find with his work. The court found tha M. Megnim, the editor, and the manager of the paper had slandered Reifi. They were each condemned to pay a fine of 16 francs and joint damages of 1.000 francs.

The Court also ordered that the judgment be published in the Vic Au Grand Air and ten other papers to be selected by Reiff, the cost to be paid by the defendants. The cost of each insertion is not to exceed 100 francs.

and the number of points deducted for stops. or being late or early, or running below the average of eight miles an hour. There were eighty cars entered for the run. Seventy-five started and sixty-eight completed the trip. Seventeen of the sixty-eight had a perfect score of 2,092 points and no stops. Of the sixty-eight, sixty-five got first class certificates, one got a second class and one a third class. Only one of the cars that finished received no award and that was because its average speed was less than eight miles an hour.

An analysis of the cause of stops by the sixty-seven machines that got certificates is interesting. Forty-nine of then were gusolene cars. Of these six made no stops at all. The causes of the stops made by the other forty-three were in percentage as follows: Ignition, 26; water circulation, 11; stalled motor, 10; tires, 10; valves, 10; accidental stops, 6; carburetter, 5; transmission general stops, 2; case connections, 2; case stalled motor, 10; tries, 10; valves, 10; accidental stode, 6; carburetter, 5; transmission gears, 4; springs, 2; gas connections, 2; out of gasolene, 2; lubrication, 2; wheel bearings, 2; chains, 2; clutch, 2; brakes, 1; broken piston, 1 and crank shaft, muffer and steering gear, 2. Total, 100.

There were eighteen steam vehicles, two of which made no stops; The halts made by the other sixteen, including those for water and others non-penalizable, show the following percentage of causes: Water and gasolene, 75; fires, 9; air pressure, 5; Water connections, 3; liwhing fires, 2; low steam, 1; water glass, 1; lubrication, 2, and brakes, chains and gas connections, 2. Total, 100.

Stops for water made by steamers cost no points, neither did stops caused by tire troubles and several other causes, but the percentages given above are figured from the sum total of stops of every kind.

Seven vehicles failed to finish. The causes of their stops were, respectively: A broken crank shaft, damaged gear shaft, iaw couplings between engine and speed gear broken and crank shaft bent, defective water circulation and het engine, broken steering gear, damaged transmission gear and broken connecting rod.

Columbia Football Men Have a Banquet. The Columbia 'Varsity football players gave a banquet at the New York Athletic Club last night in honor of Bill Morley, who coached the eleven this fall, and W. F. Mitchell, who managed the team which bent Yale in 1890 5 to 0. Morley will leave soon Yale in 1899 5 to 0. Merley will leave soon for the West, where he owns a large cattle ranch. Those present at the banquet were J. R. Knapp, D. W. Snythe, C. G. Abbott, G. C. Greene, Jack Wright, E. B. Bruce, W. E. Mitchell, H. H. Weekes, R. 8. Smith, C. L. Frombach, W. Duell, J. R. Fisher, F. V. Goodman, W. Erb, F. Duden, Toulinson Stangland, D. Brown, V. DeM. Eyrl, W. P. Slocovitch, J. B. Wolfft and others who have worn the Blue and White. There was speech, making, story-telling and college songs, together with toasts for Merley and Mitchell.

There was a large crowd last night at the opening of the skating season at the Cler-mont Avenue Rink in Brooklyn. There was only one race held, which was at one mile, and was won by A. Y. Sarony, N. Y. A. C. and was won by A. Y. Sarony, N. Y. A. C. who started from scratch and beat his club, mate, W. W. Swan, who also started from scratch, by five yards. O. Dorlan, with 110 yards handicap, finished third, five yards behind Swan. Time, 8 minutes 7.2-5 seconds. Swan took the lead on the start and did the pacing for the first four laps and then Sarony went to the front and led for three laps. After that it was a case of sprinting between Sarony and Swan, with the former finally winning out. The other competitors were W. R. Lee, A. S. Carmichael, H. D. De Locselle and C. P. Bebbles.
